

AMERICAN AVOCET

Coloring Page

American Avocets are white with a black patch on its back. Their heads are a rusty color with a long bill. American Avocets are found mainly in the Midwest and western regions of North America. Their population is stable and possibly increasing. They make their homes along beaches, shallow lakes, and prairie ponds. American Avocets eat insects, some seeds, and small crustaceans. Most of these migrate to the coast in the winter.
